

Horizontal Lifeline

Horizontal Lifeline cable systems are a type of travel restraint system and are used on buildings in areas where a fall risk or slope roof exists. Typically these are only used for fall protection, and unless specifically designed and engineered for, should never be suspended from. These systems are very high engineered and technical systems requiring complex engineering. Let Rooftop Anchor, through their turnkey system, provide you with your engineered Horizontal Lifeline System.

Watch for our coming advertising on this product.